

Enhance safety and cruise with confidence

Proactive safety and security measures can go a long way in minimizing injury and costly damage. To help you take action, AIG Private Client Group, a division of the member companies of American International Group, Inc. (AIG), is pleased to offer a range of yacht loss prevention services.

The need for loss prevention guidance

An analysis of claims filed by our yacht policyholders showed that many unfortunate situations could have been prevented. Here are a few examples:

An owner purchased a tender and decided to tow it behind his yacht—despite not having proper towing equipment installed. In the middle of the night, the running lights on the tender went out due to weak batteries. He did his best to keep an eye on the boat, but by morning it was nowhere to be found. If the owner had notified us, we could have advised on the proper equipment and best practices for towing.

Three years after purchasing a yacht, the owner was cooking lunch onboard when the stove caught fire. He pulled the pin on the fire extinguisher and squeezed the handle, but nothing happened. His wife and two children quickly put on life jackets and deployed the life raft, which only inflated partially. The family barely made it to the beach while the boat burned to the waterline. We can conduct safety equipment inspections and make recommendations for servicing and advancements.

A newly hired crew member was noticeably intoxicated and offended a charter guest. A scuffle between the crew member and another guest ensued, and the guest slipped and broke his arm. The remaining crew cared for the guest as they made their way to the nearest port. We offer access to preliminary background checks to help assess the history of potential crew members.¹
